STUDY NOTES

- Before reading the book, as a class, discuss the following questions:
 - What do you know about frogs?
 - What adventures do you think Frog will get up to in this book?
- Snap! is filled with onomatopoeias. An onomatopoeia is a word that mimics the sound that it's describing, like a crocodile going 'snap!' or water droplets going 'drip, drip'. Can you think of any other examples of onomatopoeias?
- On the second last spread, the frogs are having a little party on the pond! Can you try drawing your own festive frog?
 - What sounds would your frog make?
- There are lots of frogs hiding on the last page! How many can you find? (Answer: There are 16 in total.)
- Frog wonders who else in the forest. . .With help from an adult, find pictures of plants and cut them out to make your own collage, then draw a friend for Frog!
